Is it All Just Talk?

Newport Beach is a busy, active, interested place. City government likes and needs the input of residents and businesses. One way that people contribute to improving the City is by volunteering time to be on boards, commissions, and committees. Is the City making the best use of their time? Is the City taking the best advantage of volunteer expertise? How can the City improve how residents and business owners interact with their decision-makers? Discuss this issue and other city issues with Newport Beach City Manager Dave Kiff.
